MILLBURN COTTAGE

Millburn is a traditional stone shepherd's cottage situated on the Rhu peninsula south of Arisaig. It is set in its own gardens and protected by a steep cliff from the prevailing winds.

30 yards from the high-tide line it is on a secluded bay in Loch nan Ceall (pictured left) looking across the water to Arisaig. The surrounding hills provide an environment ideal for the nature lover who can watch deer, otter, seals, heron, duck, curlews and various birds of prey. Many walks through wonderful scenery lead all over the peninsula, especially to the many secluded, sandy beaches.

The cottage is fully equipped for 6-8 people, including linen, and has a large kitchen/dining room with Rayburn cooker and gas refrigerator, sitting-room, 3 bedrooms, bathroom and a separate cloakroom with shower. Water is supplied from Loch Millburn above the cottage and a self-starting diesel generator gives electricity. The Rayburn, central heating and hot water are oil fired and there's a wood-burner stove in the sitting-room. TV, DVD, microwave, washer/dryer and dish washer provided.

This beautiful cottage is available all the year round and prices start from £350/week. Scottish Tourist Board grading: 3 stars.
